"Interdisciplinary Spaces Intersect"

PROJECT:
BELHAVEN UNIVERSITY,
FITZHUGH HALL RENOVATION

LOCATION:
JACKSON, MISSISSIPPI

ARCHITECT:
DALE PARTNER, EDWIN DANIEL

Belhaven University recently renovated their science facilities in the east wing of the 100 year old Fitzhugh Hall. Sheldon Labs designed the physics, chemistry and biology labs to intersect with each other. The new labs have been furnished with new technology such as wireless microscopes, allowing the students to effortlessly collaborate with each other. The updated science labs at Belhaven are truly a showcase for current and prospective students.
